Hair today, wig tomorrow

Blairhampton sisters donate hair to cancer victims

by SHERYL LOUCKS

Kaitlyn McMurray has beautiful strawberry blond, naturally curly thick hair that used to hang almost to her waist. Last Thursday, the 15-year-old decided to donate her locks to the Canadian Cancer Society.

Kaitlyn and her sister Bethany, from Blairhampton, read an article in the Club House magazine about how hot and uncomfortable fake hair wigs are for cancer victims to wear. The story told them about the advantages of human hair wigs and how the society is always looking for donations of hair to be made into wigs.

"I think I'm ready for a change. It takes me an hour to comb through my hair now. But I don't know what it will do when it is shorter," says Kaitlyn. "There are lots of reasons to donate your hair to the cancer society. Children and adults will feel better about themselves if they can have real hair."

She managed to grin her way through the process as 10 inches of her braided hair was cut off by Margo McCrear at Haliburton Hairdressing, but Bethany was not as confident.

The two sisters make an interesting pair as one has straight blondish hair with a bit of a wave to it and the other has remarkably curly hair.

Bethany has been growing her hair for 10 years.

"I haven't had it cut since Kaitlyn cut it off with little rounded children's play scissors - you know the kind

Lake group vows to fight airport

by ALLISON TAYLOR

Some members of the audience cheered, while others sat with their mouths open, when the Maple and Beech Property Association executive said it would oppose any future expansion to Stanhope Airport's runway.

"The executive decided that council had not made a case for the expansion [of the Airport's runway] and it's our resolution that we are unable to accept the [Algonquin Highlands] council's proposal," said Barry Schroeder, the property association president, at the annual general meeting August 1. "We have decided to go with the majority."

Schroeder's announcement brought cheers and applause from several association members in the room of approximately 70 people.

The executive based its decision on a survey it mailed to the 90 members of the association last year.

Out of 90 possible responses, the association received 18 completed surveys. Twelve of those who replied were against the airport and the other six did not say specifically that they were against it, leaving the association with the impression that 67 per cent of association members were against the airport.

Schroeder said the company that ran the survey told him that 18 out of 90 responses was a considerably high number.

"We understand the major concerns in the group are for air-

"You asked me to - she wanted hair like her aunt's," Kaitlyn is quick to add.

The only rules about donating hair is that it not be chemically treated, permed or dyed before you have it cut.

Frank Levec and John Etches check a laptop global positioning system program and depth sounding device as they survey the bottom of Hall's Lake.

Getting to the bottom of the Hall's Lake mystery

by SHERYL LOUCKS
Special to The Times

Lured to Hall's Lake by John Etches, Frank Levec, a Ministry of Natural Resources geographic information system specialist, joined Etches in an attempt to use modern depth-sounding equipment to find a reported hole in the lake's floor.

Etches gave a talk earlier in the year about whether or not Hall's Lake was formed by a meteorite. Meteorite craters have been found as close as Algonquin Park and local legend had it Hall's Lake owed its round shape to an impact crater.

At a recent repeat performance of the talk, audience members suggested the legend began with a National Geographic article in the 1950s but another individual argued the magazine staff told him it never existed.

Etches, a local geologist who works as the education co-ordinator at the Frost Centre, says his research indicates Hall's Lake was formed by a combination of glaciers and natural fault lines in the rock. However, he has been intrigued by the results of surveys he put out after the talks. Several people have sent him stories of fishing in the lake when all of a sudden their fish finders have dropped down hundreds of feet, as low as 900 feet.

The surveys were all signed and dated and contained specific information that led him to believe they are not hoaxes. Levec says that although seaweed and turbidity or bubbles in churned up water caused by a speeding motor boat will throw off a finder's reading, it would not do so to the degree and manner described in these anecdotes.

Previous MNR data shows Hall's Lake to have a maximum depth of approximately 268 feet. That measurement, however, was taken using a now obsolete system where tapes were recorded of the depths but the exact co-ordinates were taken from a start point and then laboriously plotted on a map in an office.

Software which Levec designed includes the use of satellite positioning so that with one hand on the boat's rudder and the other on the laptop computer, he can see exactly where on a map the boat is and what the depth is. The sonar system is connected to the computer and depths are recorded and plotted every two seconds.

"What we've done today is recordable and recallable. We can pick up where we left off at any time... That blows me away," says Etches.

New technology designed by Frank Levec revolutionizes methods of measuring the lake's depth. Only problem is that it took six hours to cover one third of Hall's Lake.

Driving up and down and across the narrowest stretch of Hall's Lake, where they thought they were most likely to find the hole, the two men watched anxiously as they created lines on the map only 25 metres apart. Etches says the hole could be as small as 50 feet wide.

"I didn't realize how much detail you could get and how intensive the project was going to be," Etches admitted after approximately six hours' worth of work at mapping that covered only about one-third of the lake.

Despite the more than thorough job in the hot suspect zone, the sonar recorded a depth of only 250 feet. The information collected can be used for other purposes such as calculating the lake's habitat volume or levels of dissolved oxygen, says Levec.

In fact, the MNR is very interested in using his software for a multiple applications and launched a project to inventory key lakes in Ontario.

However, for Etches the mystery continues of what it is people are encountering on Hall's Lake. Levec says he is along for the ride and promises to return with his equipment to tackle the rest of the lake.

Council questions survey results

port expansion and economic development," Schroeder said. "The association is not opposed to economic development, we are opposed to economic development that doesn't make sense."

As part of the Stanhope Airport Master Plan, a feasibility study is being conducted to find out if it is possible to extend the existing runway at the airport.

The longer runway will be safer from an aircraft perspective, providing more time for pilots to land their planes all year long, especially in the winter months when ice and snow are a factor. The township also says the expansion will be a boost economically for not only Algonquin Highlands, but also the county at large.

Schroeder says the property association's executive made several attempts to hold meetings with members of Algonquin Highlands council to address the association's concerns. He says the meeting never transpired, but council responded to written questions from the association's executive. The executive was not satisfied with the answers.

The letter which the association sent to council, as well as the list of questions and council's response, were available to each member of the association at the meeting. An example of a question is: how many planes have been unable to land as the airport over the last ten years due to crosswind conditions?

The response from council was about a paragraph long, stating that the township had no specific records to indicate the number of planes that have not be able to land mainly because pilots are not required to file flight plans.

"The airport manager, however, has reported anecdotal information that describes aircraft not being able to land due to poor crosswind conditions," council said in the letter. It said that out of every 100 planned visits by small aircraft, 10 visits would not be able to be completed.

"We are going to wait until we have more information, but for now the association has decided to take a stance against the expansion," Schroeder said, after many people questioned if the numbers from the survey were representative of the entire group.

"Based on the information we have now, we couldn't support it. As information becomes available, we could change the decision."

Not only did the final tally disturb some members of the association, but the stance of the association put a thorn in the side of members of council, who questioned the validity of the results.

In the fall this year, council held an open house to ascertain feedback from not only the Maple and Beech Property Association, but several other associations in the township who had also been asking questions about the airport expansion. The township's feedback seemed to be the exact opposite of the survey conducted on Maple and Beech Lakes, where people were encouraged by the idea of economic growth, but wanted to simply ask more questions, Harrison said at the meeting.

In light of the difference statistics, the association didn't change its point of view. "If we had a bigger number of people in the association then maybe our opinion would change," Schroeder said.

Numbers aside, the issue of the day was undoubtedly the possible expansion of the airport runway, contingent on the results of the feasibility study of a crosswinds runway. Harrison told the group the council did not have the results of the feasibility study in its hands, but it expected them "any day now."

The results of the study were initially due in May. Harrison said council was promised them last week, but it still hadn't received the information.

She said council felt the runway expansion was necessary for the safety of all aircraft flying in and out of the airport.

The expansion would permit Ministry of Natural Resources water bombers to land at the airport, which they are unable to do right now. It would also see the arrival of fixed-wing airplanes, used to transport people in emergency medical situations, without tying up an ambulance.

"You will be kept abreast of the situation. We are not trying to hide anything from this association or any other. We are trying to be as up front as possible," Harrison told the group.

While Councillors Jim Hicks and Tom Gardner were also on hand to deal with the questions and concerns, the manager of the airport John Packer was kept busy at the airport. The AGM coincided with the airport's fly-in of ultra light airplanes.

At the end of the meeting, the council members drove to the airport for the ultra light festivities.

Algonquin Highlands Reeve Eleanor Harrison said council will keep the association up to date with any information.

'Get rid of airport,' cottagers say

by ALLISON TAYLOR
Times staff

It was no holds barred last week as members of the Maple and Beech Lake Property Association discussed the future of the Stanhope Airport with members of the Algonquin Highlands council.

"Get rid of the airport all together," said one gentleman in the back row of the Stanhope Community Centre, where nearly every chair was filled for the association's annual general meeting August 1. Both Maple and Beech Lakes are a stone's throw away from the airport, which is on Airport Road, and in close proximity to North Shore Road in Algonquin Highlands.

While there were several items on the agenda, the issue of possible extension to the airport's runway, was the issue most people wanted to discuss.

"To build an airport and create more noise, and more traffic with personal water crafts of the air - it's beyond me," said Napier Simpson, a member of the property association. "The airport issue defeats me and I don't understand why more people aren't interested in this. Truly, most people up here at this point, at least 80 per cent of us are up here to get away from this."

The room was clearly divided into cottagers versus full-time residents; pilots and people who are jaded with the sound of airplanes overhead.

Members of council expressed another group of opinions, trying to explain their point of view in a room where everyone seemed to be against each other. All sides were frustrated and there was lots of yelling. Many people were visibly distraught, while some managed to remain calm and willing to listen to all sides. All opinions rang clear once the reeve of Algonquin Highlands, Eleanor Harrison, took centre stage to answer questions relating to the municipality. The majority of questions related to the airport.

"I think you have to put some faith in your council," Harrison said to a roll of thunderous disapproval from the audience.

"I've lived in Haliburton County most of my life and young people have to leave because there are no jobs available. There is not enough economic development, or good clean industry here to keep them in the county," she said of council's expressed support for the expansion to the airport runway. "I don't see anything wrong with it. I'm sorry, I just don't. There are not enough young people here to keep economic development growing."

Harrison told the group that the airport is not costing them a lot right now. She said last year, the airport cost taxpayers in Algonquin Highlands $3,000.

The township argues that an expansion to the airport would bring much needed economic development to the local tax base and would generate local jobs. It would also provide a safer place for pilots to land, once the crosswinds feasibility study has been completed.

On one side, permanent residents who live on either Maple or Beech Lake seem to approve of economic development in the township, while another group of ratepayers, who cottage in the area during the summer months, are totally against the idea of developing more of the area.

Jill Cait is one of those summer cottagers on Maple Lake.

"This whole area, is a cottage area. The idea of developing this area is a pie in the sky. I move that we close the airport. Now that [council] got a wedge in there, they are digging it deeper," Cait said standing in front of her chair in the middle of the room. "[Cottagers] are paying 80 per cent of the tax base and you have to listen to us. The airport is not what we want."

As Cait was speaking, another member of the audience yelled out, "We don't want industry here."

After Cait was finished speaking, cottagers applauded her statements.

In the midst of the applause, a full-time resident made a few comments.

"It disturbs me to talk of this place as only cottages. They way you look at things changes considerably and your point of view changes when you live here full-time," she said to a hushed audience. "Airplanes, I don't hear all that much, but the boats on the water during the weekends far outweigh the noise of any airplanes."

Her comments were met with applause from full-time residents on the lakes.

Then it was time for the pilots to speak.

A major issue that was raised was about the current noise of airplanes in the sky, the blare of airplanes during takeoff and landing, and how the vibration of cottages and the alleged disruption of peace would only get worse if expansion went forward.

One pilot in the room said the fallacy of the expansion of the runway is that longer runways attract bigger plans.

"Runways don't attract airplanes, there has to be some reason to go there," he said. "It's like saying putting a bigger parking lot in a church will attract more people to the services. It's won't. If we put a casino beside the airport, then look who will come."

Maple and Beech Lake Property Association president Barry Schroeder tried to control the room and stood beside Harrison at the front of the room.

The arguments still came forward.

"If I would've known this airport cost me so much noise, I wouldn't have bought my cottage here," one woman said. "I would've bought elsewhere."

Harrison, who had trouble answering several of the questions posed to her, had some assistance from Councillors Jim Hicks and Tom Gardner, and a few pilots in the audience.

The questions were varied and covered a variety of topics related to the airport. For example, one person in the audience asked about policing the skies, while another was concerned about how close some airplanes were flying over cottages. People asked about controlling the military airplanes, which is not something council can do, and they also wanted to know how much the airport was going to cost taxpayers.

When a question related to alleged dumping of mysterious substances from airplanes into the lakes was posed, Harrison had one rapid response.

"It was water," she said without a doubt. "It's water from a water bomber."

An emergency room nurse from Huntsville told the audience that the ability to land fixed-wing aircraft to transport patients to hospitals in larger cities would benefit the county.

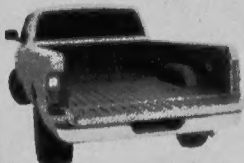

Harrison expressed a need for military helicopters.

"Would you not be thankful if there was a major fire, that the helicopter was close by," she asked.

Despite all the racing heart rates and elevated blood pressure, one thing remained certain.

"We don't have the two million dollars need for the expansion and we don't have the feasibility study. No one is going to give us the money," Harrison said.

Make a difference

Who among us has not dreaded the thought of going to the doctor for treatment of an ache or pain and being told we have some form of cancer? It is a terrifying thought. While we can speculate about how we would feel to hear such news, only those who have heard those words from a physician can truly appreciate and understand the fear and other emotions associated with the chilling statement, "you have cancer."

Just a few years ago, being diagnosed with most forms of cancer left little hope of survival. But that is changing. There is hope. Some forms of cancer are far less lethal than they were even a few years ago, thanks to research by scientists, doctors and technicians around the world.

Canada is a leader in cancer research and great strides are being made to ease the suffering. Canada is also a leader in raising the funds which are necessary to carry out research.

The biggest fund-raising event for cancer research is the annual Terry Fox Run, which is scheduled for Sunday, September 15.

In the minds of many, Terry Fox was the greatest Canadian hero because of his vision and determination to fight this devastating disease, both from a personal perspective and through his quest to raise money for cancer research with his Marathon of Hope.

The Minden Terry Fox Run Committee is in the process of organizing this year's event. Pledge sheets will be available at various locations in and around Minden soon.

The Minden Run is one of three in Haliburton County. The Haliburton Terry Fox Run is also scheduled for September 15, while the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School and J.D. Hodgson Elementary School hold a combined run the Friday before, on September 13.

The event is not a competition. There are no prizes for the fastest runner, just the satisfaction that you are doing something to help in the search for a cure for cancer.

The Minden Terry Fox Run boasts a group of helpers that would be envied by communities much larger.

Together, we can make a difference. Pick up a pledge sheet and help to make the 22nd annual Minden Terry Fox Run the best ever.

A special gift

Two teenaged girls from the Blairhampton area recently made a sacrifice for a special cause. The sisters, Kaitlyn and Bethany McMurray, aged 13 and 15, respectively, donated some of their hair to the Canadian Cancer Society. The locks will be used to make wigs for people who have lost their hair because of radiation treatment for cancer.

Appearance is very important, especially to teenaged girls. Although their remaining hair is still shoulder-length, being accustomed to long, flowing locks will take some getting used to for the McMurray sisters. Their sacrifice, we're sure, will be very much appreciated by cancer sufferers who are also concerned about their appearance. We salute Kaitlyn and Bethany for their thoughtfulness.

TO THE EDITOR

Times readers write

Paddleboat incident lacks common sense and priority?

To the Editor:

We read with interest the account of the 'dangerous' paddleboat incident on Kushog Lake by Edith Dalton.

We have summered on Kushog Lake since 1959 and, with our children and grandchildren, have been involved daily with boating safety. The enforcement of boating rules and regulations is most important to all of us. However, in this 'dangerous' incident two things are missing: common sense and priority.

Why would enforcement officers chase an obviously family-oriented owner of the paddleboat (maybe it was extremely easy to apprehend?) when our lake is being overtaken by PWC and wake boats some of which are operated by irresponsible, brainless 'yahoos'? Why are enforcement officers not investigating these types of boating users – the ones that compromise all our safety?

Why do we have to personally rebuild our shoreline to thwart the wave attack from said operators and install dock whips to save our boats from damage? For many years, with great protective pride, we have watched the loons nesting on our 'little island'. We believe that in early July the two loon eggs were smashed by these high waves. The adverse effect on the shoreline for the ducks, frogs, and other nesting animals and wildlife is another consideration to be addressed.

So, 'bouquets' to the idea of boating safety enforcement but 'brickbats' to the officers who abandoned common sense and priority on the shores of Kushog Lake.

Sincerely,

Helen Cassidy and the Cassidy Family

Theme music for the broken hearted

It seems the latest trend in funerals is to forget the old hymns and bring on the rock and roll, or whatever other music signified the life of the deceased. Songs like "Stairway to Heaven" and "Candle in the Wind" have replaced the golden oldies of the funeral parlor. And, since I'm still kicking, this change came none too soon.

Personally, I think this advances us one step closer to the ultimate goal of having theme music accompany us wherever we go. Let's face it, we all secretly want it but the only people bold enough to make it happen are teens with good stereo systems in their cars. And even that only goes as far as the parking lot and a few adjacent rattled windows.

But I'm referring to the loftiest of human dreams; the gift of having your very own personal theme music reflect your each and every mood, all day long, making small talk virtually obsolete. Suddenly, others would see that additional element of coolness that you always assured them was there. Of course, if your entire theme music repertoire consisted of Bobby Vinton Polka tunes this would also confirm a few others things as well.

But let's not go there. Instead, imagine flinging open the door on your return home from work. You stand there silhouetted with blue sky behind you and remove your cheap sun glasses while Steve Miller's "Space Cowboy" is playing all around you in stereo. The kids rush up to you for hugs, just happy to be near so cool a dad.

Your wife struts over to greet you while the raucous sounds of Foreigner's "Hot-blooded" emanate from the air around her. The atmosphere is electric and you gaze into each other's eyes while slowly circling each other like two wild rutting beasts. The theme music switches over to "Wild thing." You hand her roses and wine, and her personal music changes to Chilliwack's "Feel Like Making Love." You answer very quickly with the theme song from Free Willy.

The kids run off to various washrooms turning green and holding hands over mouths. In unison you smile and, "I Think We're Alone Now!" blares through the room.

But suddenly, it occurs to you that this is nowhere near Friday night at 10 o'clock to 10:07. Something is definitely wrong. You look at her curiously and Annie Lennox's, "Why?" plays softly in the background.

She returns a misty stare and tells you that one of the kids used your best fly rod for a javelin. She hands it to you in eight pieces. Queen's "Another One Bites The Dust" accompanies this mournful gesture.

Don't fall into Mel's hole

If you suffer from the twin afflictions of insomnia and radio addiction, chances are you know Art Bell. He runs a late-night, call-in radio show out of California that you can tune in to pretty well anywhere in North America if you can find the signal. To say that Art caters to the weird and offbeat would be understating it. The thing that makes his show unique is that the word 'skeptic' is not in his vocabulary. He will take calls from anyone about anything and will pass no judgement whatsoever.

Spotted a UFO? Art's all ears.

Been kidnaped by a UFO? You're on the air, caller.

Been kidnaped by a UFO piloted by giant Venusian lizards that took you to the centre of the earth where the aliens turn captured humans into sex slaves? Art will ask you for all the gory details.

Needless to say, Art's got a corner on the North American Nutbar market. He's also got regular callers. One of them is a fellow named Mel Waters.

Maybe. No one actually knows where Mel lives, or if he even exists, but somebody who calls himself Mel Waters phones in to the show a lot. That's when the talk turns from giant subterranean lizards and two-headed moose fetuses to Mel's Hole.

The hole is so named because it exists, allegedly, on land once owned by Mel Waters in bush country outside the small town of Ellensburg, Washington.

According to local legend, what makes the hole special is that it is, well, bottomless. People have thrown rocks in and never heard them hit bottom. The hole has also been, folks say, the repository for old refrigerators, dead cows and other various and sundry kinds of flotsam and jetsam. It swallows them whole without a trace.

Chatting with Art Bell, the Man Who Calls Himself Mel Waters claimed he once lowered 80,000 feet of weighted fishing line without hitting bottom.

Not surprisingly, Mel's Hole is being invested with supernatural capabilities. One man swears that he threw a dead dog in the hole one day and saw it romping around in the woods the next. Others are convinced the hole has magical powers to cure human ailments like migraines and arthritis. The most popular theory is that Mel's Hole is a portal to a parallel universe (probably how those giant Venusian lizards got in).

There's just one tiny problem with Mel's Hole. No one can find it. You'd think a hole that was used as a neighbourhood dump for generations would be easy to spot, but no, collective amnesia seems to have settled over the Washington boonies. No one can quite remember where Mel's Hole is.

And Mel? Well, he won't say. In his calls to the Art Bell show, Mel claims that "soldiers in yellow gear showed up one day, told Mel that it would be a good idea to (a) sell the property containing the hole to the U.S. government ASAP and (b) move to, oh, how about Australia, even quicker. Otherwise, Mel claimed, they promised to "find" an illegal drug lab on his land and throw him in the slammer indefinitely. Mel says he took the payoff and split, but that his, ahem, conscience won't let him remain silent any longer.

There are several gaps in the Mel's Hole paranormal theory, each of them just slightly smaller than Mel's Hole itself.

For one thing, the geology of the area. It's what they call volcanic lahar, brittle and unstable. You don't find many caves in such rock - certainly not deep ones. For another thing, Mel's statement about lowering 80,000 feet of weighted fishing line into the hole without hitting bottom. Folks, that getting on for 16 MILES of paid-out line. Never mind the sheer, mind-boggling logistics of unreeling anything that huge and cumbersome in the middle of the bush - a geologist with the state Department of Natural Resources says the heat of the earth would burn or melt a fishing line long before it got that deep.

None of which deters the Mel's Hole conspiracy theorists for a nanosecond. For them, The Truth Is Down There. If nobody can find Mel's Hole, then that's because secret agents of the U.S. government must have covered it with a concrete pad and camouflaged the entire area.

What do I think? Well, I've never seen Mel's Hole. Never even met a Mel's Hole believer, but I hope to someday.

You see, I own the rights to the CN Tower and I've been looking for a buyer....

Looking for information about Warrant Officer McPhail

To the Editor:

I hope that you are able to help me.

I would like to contact anyone who has any information on R/67887 Warrant Officer Donald Burton McPhail, the son of Albert Harold and Florence Louise McPhail of Windsor, Ontario. W/O McPhail died on the early afternoon of Monday, 7th December 1942 in a Westland Whirlwind fighter-bomber of 263 Squadron RAF during an anti shipping sortie to the Channel Islands. His aircraft was seen to enter a hail of anti-aircraft fire from a number of German ships, which his squadron had attacked six miles to the south of Jersey. The aircraft entered a dive from which it failed to recover, diving under full power into the English Channel.

Unfortunately, the only facts that I have to go on at this time are the details as contained above and the photograph that I have attached for your information.

A memorial to this airman and his commanding officer is due to be unveiled on September 13th, 2002 to mark the 60th anniversary of their loss. Any help that you are able to give would be gratefully received. I can be contacted at the details at the bottom of this message.

If you have any further questions that I may be able to answer please do not hesitate to contact me.

Thank you for your help.

Another viewpoint

To the Editor:

Your recent editorial on private roads and cottagers' attitudes prompts me to share another side to the position you took, with references to all of the facilities available in Minden, library, museum etc. and the cost of maintaining the community. Cottagers feel they do at least their share of the financing of the list of expenses you described.

It begins with the assessments on their lakefront properties upon which the taxes are based. It isn't hard to understand that a dwelling on a lake has a higher real estate value than a similar home in the nearby community. It isn't hard to postulate that the difference could be a least fifty per cent higher, and in that event, taxes are that much higher as well, and that means that the cottager is paying more than his share in financial support of the community at large.

Being a seasonal user of his investment also means that his "share" of the use of the museum, library, community centre etc., is far less than is that of someone living in Minden, with closer access to the facilities and the whole of the year to use them.

When we deliver our refuse, (rather than having it picked up as do the folks in town or on certain of the rural roads), we have to travel 20-30 kilometers to and from the landfill site. The same travel and expense is true if we use the library, the museum, or the arena. That adds to the expense for the cottager vs what the townspeople have to face when they enjoy the same facilities.

The purpose of this note is not to "dump" on the community in which we have chosen to spend our leisure time. It is just to present another side to that which you displayed in your editorial. If the owners who supply their own water, deal with their own sewage, maintain their own roads, seek to have some equitable relief by having Minden Hills take over their roads, it may just be that they feel they are paying their taxes for even less services than others among us enjoy.

Alan Seager

Note: The Township of Minden Hills does not provide garbage pickup for the residents of Minden, or anywhere else. Garbage pickup is available by private contractors, the cost of which is borne by those who contract for the service. In addition, Minden residents and businesses pay for water and sewer services. They have no choice. If a residence or business is within the area covered by water and sewer services, it is mandatory to be connected to the systems and to share in the cost of those services. It is user pay and the users of the Minden water and sewer systems recently had their costs raised because of increased regulations resulting from the Walkerton situation. People who choose to live in Minden are aware of that fact, much the same as people who purchase property on a private road should be aware that they must share in the cost of keeping the road passable. Don't tar all PWC owners with the same brush

To the Editor:

This is regarding Soyna and Mike Proctor's letter in The Times last week.

I live on the Gull River five houses from Main Street, my children swim in the river all the time, and they also know to yield way to boats and Personal Water Crafts (PWC's). I have no problem with boats or PWCs that go by my house, they are always courteous and wave when they go by. I am personally, the proud owner of a 2002 PWC and a boat. I travel the river all the time. I have seen no one speeding or out of control. As for the grandma that got the ticket, maybe she should brush up on the law. I believe it has been in effect since 1999. Perhaps she received the ticket because the Ontario Provincial Police could not find any PWCs speeding or boats out of control on the lake. I'm sure there are a few who do not obey the law and speed limits but don't judge us all the same. The next time I'm down the river I will be sure to wave, that is if I'm in control and not speeding on my PWC as I'm heading for Gull Lake.

Boaters: Respect wildlife

To the Editor:

I have sad news. One of the four young loons born on Gull Lake this spring was killed. It wasn't eaten, so we assume it was hit by one of the hundreds of fast boats on this lake. They go too fast and couldn't possibly see something in the water in time to avoid it.

I know it's hard to enforce speed limits with almost no police presence, but I wanted to say again; PLEASE WATCH FOR WILDLIFE and CHILDREN when operating boats on any lake.

This young loon was born in Miners Bay on July first, and was almost good at diving. It's a shame that some young people don't care about these creatures.

I sometimes wonder why people come up here from the noisy city, and then make our peaceful paradise as noisy as where they came from. I do the Loon Survey for "Birds Canada" and each year I have to report on how the young make out. This year would have been a record year. Last year there were only two born.

Please take care. Where the wildlife goes, we go next!

Sincerely,

Margot Roberts

In celebration of its 55th anniversary, the Rotary Club of Minden decided to do something special for the youngsters who use Minden's Rotary Park. The club purchased a couple of pieces of equipment to "address the needs of the very young," said Minden Rotary Club President Jeanne Anthon. A bouncing rider and a bouncing teeter totter were purchased by the Rotary Club of Minden and the municipality installed them at the park to compliment the other equipment for children. The two new fixtures cost $2,500 and municipal staff installed the two items. On hand for the photo opportunity were, left to right: Jeanne Anthon, Ross Rigney, Charles Linderman (a Rotarian from Fairborn, Ohio who spends his summers in The Highlands) Minden Hills Deputy-Reeve Jim McMahon, Councillor Bill Valentine, Councillor Peter Oyler and Parks and Recreation Manager Ray Miscio.

First Public Notice

FISH STOCKING IN NEW WATERS PROPOSED IN THE MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES' BANCROFT DISTRICT

The Ministry of Natural Resources is proposing to stock Rainbow Trout into two local lakes, which historically have not been inhabited by this species.

The lakes this Ministry is proposing to stock are:

- a) Horseshoe Lake, Minden Township - Introduce Rainbow Trout to a lake which previously supported lake trout and warm water species.
- b) Glamor Lake, Glamorgan and Monmouth Township - Introduce Rainbow Trout to a lake in which the current Lake Trout population is in decline.

The purpose of this proposal is to provide new short and long term angling opportunities for trout and divert some of the present heavy fishing pressure away from current lake trout fisheries in the district. The contribution of this proposal will also help in the achievement of targets for cold water angling opportunities identified in the Minden District Land Use Guidelines. The project is being planned in accordance with an approved Class "C" Environmental Assessment for small Scale MNR Projects. This notice is intended to give you the opportunity to provide input to the planning of this project. Where you feel, after consulting with MNR staff, that serious environmental concerns remain unresolved it is your right to request that the project be subject to an individual environmental assessment under the Environmental Assessment Act. The decision rests with the Minister of the Environment.

Comments and information collected regarding this proposal will be kept on file unless otherwise requested, will be available for public review.

You are invited to direct any inquiries, or comments regarding the introduction of Rainbow Trout in Horseshoe Lake of Minden Township, and Glamor Lake of Glamorgan and Monmouth Township by August 31st 2002.

Twelve Mile Lake POA AGM

Topics span from healthcare to bridges

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

Dale Walker, executive director of the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Foundation, explained how the fund-raising campaign is going and some of the services the two hospitals in Haliburton County offer.

Walker noted that the campaign is about $600,000 from the goal of $5.7-million. She pointed out that the two hospitals combined treat about 25,000 people over the course of a year in their emergency departments, with 11,000 of those in the summer months. She said they treat everything from people snagged with fish hooks to broken bones and more serious ailments and injuries.

One member of the association related an experience his family had when his mother was taken to the Minden Hospital for treatment recently. "The staff at the hospital was excellent," he said. "I was really impressed with how wonderful they are. I'm very impressed with the quality of service."

Asked about beds at the Minden site, Walker explained that the beds in Minden are for short-term observation. "Anyone who needs a longer stay would likely be transferred to the Haliburton Hospital," she said. "There is no plan for longer term beds at the Minden Hospital."

Regarding a question about the doctor situation, Walker answered that the board is continuing its recruitment process.

Another member noted that the bridge in Minden is a vulnerable point and asked if Walker knew of any plan to build a second bridge over the Gull River. She pointed out that the access via the Scotch Line Road off Highway 35 is an alternative route if the bridge in Minden happened to be blocked for some reason. She knew of no plan for a second bridge in Minden. There hasn't been any problem yet, but that's not to say there won't be.

It was pointed out there is a fully-equipped birthing room at the Haliburton Hospital.

Walker said there is a lot going on at both hospitals that many people may not be aware of.

A motion was made to donate $250 to the HHHS Foundation. It was amended to $400 and passed by the membership. It was stressed by the executive that members shouldn't forget to make their individual donations.

Trails and Tours

The statement: "In Haliburton County we do it outdoors" drew a round of applause from an estimated 75 people who attended the meeting. Barrie Martin, chair of the Haliburton Highlands Trails and Tours Network, uttered the statement. Martin works at the Frost Centre and said he likes to play outdoors, which prompted him to get involved with the Trails and Tours Network.

He said the Network's goal is to develop a variety of trail opportunities in the county for both motorized and non-motorized trail users. "We want to provide recreational opportunities," he said. "The Network has been in existence for three years and it is garnering more support all the time."

The Network has applied for a grant, but it will need to come up with matching funds through fund-raising efforts and possibly support from other government programs.

Some of the projects include the design and construction of information kiosks, upgrading of existing trails, development of the geology and mineral aspect of some trails for those interested in rocks and minerals and the development of responsible use of trails by 4X4 vehicles.

Martin asked the association's members to join the Trails and Tours Network membership as well.

Martin noted that the Network is planning on participating in the Central Ontario Loop Trail's Trail Fest in October. The local participation is expected to be on a small scale this year with the possibility of expanding in the future.

"There are some interesting things coming up," Martin said.

Asked if there is any policy regarding separation between Nordic and snowmobile trails, Martin replied: "The separation already exists. There are lots of multiple-use trails, but some are designated for specific uses."

Political front

Minden Hills Councillor Bill Obee, who represents the property owners of the Twelve Mile Lake area, brought a political perspective to the meeting.

Obee talked about the Minden business park and the fact that three businesses will soon be operating from that location. The Limberlost facility is already in operation, while Akers Auto Glass and Campbell's Garden Centre and Flower Shop will soon be relocated there.

Obee also outlined the some of the costs of living in The Highlands of which those present at the meeting may not be aware. One such expense is bridges. Obee noted that $1.5-million will have to be set aside over the next 10 years to maintain and repair the bridges in the county.

The planning meeting, which was held at the community centre in Minden recently, enjoyed a better than expected turnout. Obee said he was pleased that so many people made the effort to add their input to the process.

Obee noted that the controversial "clean and clear by-law" has been passed. "Look around, there are some properties being cleaned up voluntarily," he said. "There really isn't any argument. We've had about a dozen complaints and only a couple of them were frivolous - between neighbours who don't get along."

With regard to septic system inspections and the cost of repairs to those in need, Obee said the municipality is asking the Healthy Future Program for 80 per cent funding to help people replace septic systems to a maximum of $5,000.

Road naming for 9-1-1 was discussed.

Name change deadline is end of August

Obee explained that several criteria, including the number of residences on a road, whether or not there is a lake at the end of the road, and others, are used to decide which names are changed and which remain the same. There was one complaint that not enough emphasis is placed on the history of a road when names are chosen.

The deadline for suggested names of those roads that need to be changed is the end of August. It was noted that road captains are needed — people who know the residents on any given road — to assist with the process. Name changes eliminate confusion when an emergency vehicle is dispatched. It was pointed out that the dispatch centre is in Lindsay and the dispatcher on duty may not be familiar with the area from which a call originates.

"People who call 9-1-1 are excited and they may not be from the area," it was noted. It was also suggested that the 9-1-1 numbering system has more uses than directing emergency personnel to a specific location. It will also assist couriers and other delivery people locate the exact destination for their parcels.

Obee was asked if it was possible to pay one's taxes on monthly installments. He said he would be in favour of 10 to 12 installments a year. One thing he is not in favour of is the municipality assuming responsibility for maintenance of private roads.

Other discussions centered around tipping fees and dump cards, the number of bags of garbage allowed without charge and the fact that the municipality is issuing one card to property owners for one free load of garbage to a landfill site.

Golf Fun Day

The Twelve Mile Lake POA will hold its annual Golf Fun Day at the Beaverbrook Golf Course on August 31. The event is limited to 56 people. It was stressed that the first 56 people to register will be the ones accepted. Volunteers to assist with the event are needed.

By-laws missing

It was pointed out that the by-laws of the association have been misplaced. Anyone who knows of their whereabouts is asked to contact any member of the executive.

School's Cool

Or at least it will be for these young graduates

by ALLISON TAYLOR
Times staff

The sound of school bells are in the air – just ask the 10 recent graduates from the School is Cool program who are now ready for doors to open in September.

Donning their best gear and wearing individually designed graduation hats, 10 children aged three to five received their first diploma. The program helps prepare kids for kindergarten in September.

Three and a half year-old Jacey Baldry had a great time in the seven-week program.

Her mother, Sue Baldry, says she enrolled Jacey in the program to get her ready to start kindergarten in September.

"It was really good for her," she said during her daughter's graduation from the program. "She changed from the first day. At first she didn't want to stay and by the end she was excited and had made lots of new friends."

The School is Cool program is a school readiness program.

"We teach them things they need to know before starting school," said one of three teachers, Susanne Long. "Things like routines, the alphabet, numbers and shapes."

Long says the teachers go over a developmental checklist with the parents to let them know where their children are standing from the start.

"Faced with an extremely hot summer, we did well," Long said.

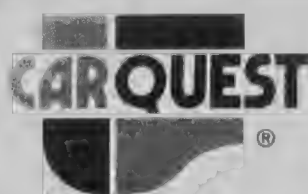

Denise Murphy says her son Aaron Baychuk is better prepared for kindergarten after graduating from the program.

"It gives the kids friends to start off school with in September," Murphy said.

The two other teachers were Bev Jackson and Bea Hutchings. The School is Cool program is made possible each year by SIRCH, the Trillium Lakelands District School Board who donated the use of the Archie Stouffer Elementary School classroom space and CHACE.

The program started July 2 and wrapped with all the pomp and circumstance of any graduation last week.

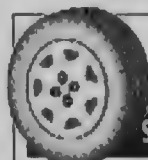

Each graduate made their own hat.

An old-time family social

Tillie and Samuel Medland, above, tried out these old wooden desks at the Minden County Town Museum on Thursday during the second annual family picnic social. These children were taking part in a scavenger hunt through out the museum's buildings but struck out when it came to finding a sticker they needed in one of the old desks.

Noah Graham takes a whack at croquet., left. His younger brother eli, top left, wasn't quite as sure what to do with the croquet mallet.

Emma and Elise Nower, right, were introduced to the days before the creation of Barbie as they were taught how to make their own rag dolls. The sisters, eight and five years old respectively, were visiting the museum earlier in the week when they heard of the event and decided to come back for it.

Fore!

Mike Lennox wins the Canadian Junior Match Play Golf Championship

by JERRY GROZELLE
Times staff

From spring to fall, Mike Lennox, 13, of Minden, spends as many days as possible on the links or at the driving range. His dedication to the game and the coaching of Ken Rosenberg have earned the young golfer a reputation as one of the best in Canada for his age category in the sport.

He has been competing across the province and beyond all summer, enjoying tremendous success in the Canadian Junior Golf Association 13 and under division.

Lennox won the 13 and under division PING Canadian Junior Match Play Championship at Horseshoe Valley Resort in Barrie on August 9. The tournament was held over four days (August 6 to 9), with players being accepted based on their performance over the summer.

The opening two days of the 13 and under division were stroke play to narrow the field to eight players. The top eight advanced to the match play finals.

Lennox shot a 78 on the first day and an 82 on the second day to finish third overall and earn a berth in the match play quarterfinal round. In match play each hole is scored separately.

In his quarterfinal round on Thursday, August 8, Lennox defeated Colin Donovan of Oakville 3 and 2. (He led by three holes with two left to play.)

Friday morning saw Lennox eliminate Graham Baillargeon of Mississauga, winning the match 5 and 4 in the semifinal. With that win, he went head to head with Corey Bartlett of Shanty Bay for the championship.

Lennox emerged the winner 4 and 3.

When the match ended after 15 holes, Lennox was just three over par.

The win in the PING Canadian Junior Match Play Championship Lennox is now ranked second in Canada in the 13 and under division in the CPGA Order of Merit.

This event was tournament number 10 for Lennox this season. Last week, he played in the Quebec Provincial Championship in Lachute, where he finished second in the 13 and under division.

This week, Lennox is off to St. Andrews Valley in Aurora to compete in the CJGA National Stroke Play Championship. By the end of the summer, he will have competed in more than a dozen golf tournaments.

Who is Mike Lennox's golf hero. "Tiger Woods," he says.

Although he golfs at Beaverbrook, Blairhampton and the Haliburton Highlands golf courses, he is a member of the Pinestone Golf and Country Club, where he does most of his local golfing.

"I'd like to thank my coach Ken Rosenberg," Lennox said. "He's a really good coach and it helps that he owns the driving range."

He also expressed his appreciation to his parents, Andy and Val Lennox, for their support and encouragement, not to mention the rides to numerous events across the province, as well as Deanna Rosenberg for her generosity and encouragement.

Mike Lennox is a well rounded athlete. During the winter months he plays hockey (goaltender). "I like both golf and hockey," he says. "In the winter I don't think about golf and in the summer I don't think about hockey."

Monkeying around

Face painting and fishing were just two of the fun things to do at the Mountain Lake Picnic on August 4, at the Jordan Drive Boat Launch, just off Highway 35 on Mountain Lake. Twin brothers Daron and Damon put on their best monkey faces after having their faces painted like their favourite animal and then moved onto the fishing pond to test their fishing skills. Not even the threatening rain clouds (and eventual downpour) put a damper on the activities. Kids were treated to various races and competitions such as the ever so popular shoe toss. There was also a min putt course set up.

Crowds have a splash at Boshkung regatta

The Boshkung Lake Property Owners' Association's annual Regatta was held Saturday, August 3 at the Matabanick Inn beach. The day was an overwhelming success. A great day was had by all!

Thanks to the Matabanick Inn and Cliff Archer for having us again.

Last but not least...a special thank you to the volunteers who manned the booths, prepared the food, arranged, set-up, cleaned up etc. Without you, the Regatta could not have happened.

Sitting on the porch, high on the hill

AROUND THE TOWN

Patti Fleury

There is something to be said for just porch sitting. This is quite a confession for someone whose knitting needles click constantly while watching Oprah and Dr. Phil attempt to salvage other people's relationships. Last week the long wait for the moving van at Emma's new Ajax house was spent, of necessity, sitting on the maple-shaded front steps of its huge verandah watching the world go by. There is a respectable history associated with porch sitting. By 1860, famed American garden architect A.J. Downing declared that no country house was tolerable without a verandah to shield from direct exposure to the sun, an opinion shared by most house builders in Upper Canada at that time. Kinmount can boast several beautiful porches. One of my favourites, complete with its old church pews, wicker rockers and flower tubs, belongs to the Kinmount House Bed & Breakfast. Owner Patrick Healey tells me that several of his visitors talk about writing a book describing all the comings and goings they observed in our little town from their vantage points high on the hill.

Guy Scott explained that on this same site settler John Hunter, known as the founder of Kinmount, had built his first structure, and later businessman Mr. Mansfield the house we know today so beautifully restored to its Victorian elegance by Patrick.

Mary Coffey McNamara, who grew up here at the farmhouse, says that in the early years you could see the Galway Road from its porch. Beautiful trees have long filled in that view so I will content myself with sitting in the comfort of the present screened enclosure to draft a petition to declare porch sitting an official Olympic Event should Toronto ever be awarded the Games.

Good to hear from Tom Lang that the Third Annual Warren Fountain Memorial Oldtimers Ball Tournament held on Saturday, August 11 was such a great success. The four area teams from Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Irondale and Kinmount battled it out all day at St. Patrick's Field here in Kinmount, with Bobcaygeon the winner by a score of 13-8 over Fenelon Falls. Now organizers are considering setting up a league for regular play.

Tom also reports that the recent Street Dance, held to raise funds for the new lighting at the ball field, was well supported with some $840 raised. With the new lighting in place, other recreational activities may become possible.

Vic Ballik reports that the "Health Walk" on August 11 drew an eager crowd of walkers and riders in support of the programs offered at the Kinmount and District Health Centre. Their efforts raised an impressive total of $ 8,800. A special thank you goes out to our Fire Department, the Kinmount Lions Club, the Minden Amateur Radio Club, Subway for the great food, every prize donor and to each concerned person who pledged support for our community.

Don't miss your favourite events at the Kinmount Fair. Its website at www.kinmountfair.ca gives a complete schedule. Reliable sources tell me that the Lions Club Monster Bingo in the Arena on Thursday, August 29 is so popular that the doors open at 5:30 p.m. for the 7 p.m. start.

Congratulations to the Kinmount Seniors Club 174 on its very successful Civic Holiday Flea Market/Yard Sale. Members would like to thank everyone for the contributions.

Author Michael Barnes invites all fellow Haliburton Chamber of Commerce members to the launch of his latest book titled "The Essential Haliburton" on Thursday, August 22 at 8 p.m. at the Delta Pinestone. Be there right on time to participate in the draw for some great prizes.

With the scoring news comes best wishes for a great week. Do keep well and busy.

Friday, August 2 bid euchre at Club 35, Halls Lake: Darryl Stiver, Wally Thomson, Harold Smith, Pat Scadden and Chris Clarke all had single moonshots while Helen Joynt took the hidden score honours. At 295, Don Symons led the white cards, with Vicki Campagnolo a close second at 294 and Pat Scadden at 287 for third.

Thursday, August 8 euchre at the Minden Legion Branch 636: Theresa Deak held the most lone hands for the ladies and Garth Windsor for the men. Leading in the high score department were Barb Robitaille and Don Burch, with Edith Burch and Orville Francis taking second spot. Other prizes went to Jim Bradbury, Lois Adamson, Vicki Campagnolo and Pearl Cowen.

Reconstruction of Approximately 700 metres of Road

PUBLIC COMMENT INVITED

As required under the Provincial Environmental Assessment Act, the County of Haliburton hereby notifies all interested individuals and agencies that subject to the comments received as a result of this NOTICE and the receipt of the required approvals, the Roads Department intends to proceed with the planning, design and subsequent construction of the above-noted project.

This project is being planned under Schedule B of the Municipal Class Environmental Assessment. The purpose of this undertaking will be to reconstruct the above-described portion of County Road No. 18 (South Kashagawigamog Lake Road), a site located between a private road known as "Neighbourly Way" northerly for a distance of approximately 700 metres, being the vicinity of the entrance to "William's Landing".

The scope of the reconstruction will include raising the existing road between Neighbourly Way and Bamforth Lane by approximately 3.0 metres, lowering the road north of Bamforth Lane by approximately 2.0 metres and raising the existing road in the area of the William's Landing entrance by approximately 1.5 metres. These improvements will address safety concerns related to speed limit and minimum sight distances for intersecting roads and entrances.

PUT MOSQUITOES OUT OF TOUCH

Mosquitoes are a nuisance, especially when they bite. But another reason to reduce their numbers is to prevent the spread of West Nile virus. The virus is spread by mosquitoes. Not everyone infected with the virus becomes severely ill. Mosquitoes become infected by biting birds infected with the virus.

Dead birds are a good indicator of the presence of the virus and you can help the Haliburton, Kawartha, Pine Ridge District Health Unit track the virus by reporting dead crows.

For more information on personal protection from mosquito bites, West Nile Virus, and dead bird surveillance call your local health unit toll-free at 1-866-888-HKPR.

Hyland Crest gets the 'musical juices flowing'

Hello friends, family and neighbours!

Another week - where does the time go? Seems like just yesterday we were getting ready for spring planting and now we are thoroughly enjoying the fruits of our - oh yes and our volunteers' - labour.

We begin our column where we left off last Thursday. The ladies of Club 35 brought loads of goodies and spoiled us at Tea Party. The goodies were delicious, but definitely not for the diet conscious. Everyone enjoyed them, however. Thank you ladies!

Friday the weather co-operated with our barbecue plans, so we enjoyed hamburgers and salads, along with strawberries and ice cream for desert. Thank you to all those who pitched in and helped out. Great teamwork!

That didn't tire us out too much as we all enjoyed the music and company of Northern Jam that evening for Happy Hour. The group consists of Al Blanchard, Bill Rinne, Marilyn Giles and Tom McMullen. Thank you all for coming.

Once again the men enjoyed their much-anticipated monthly program accurately named Men's Club. This month roasted pork chops, scalloped potatoes, cauliflower, mixed vegetables and the crowd favourite, home made bread, were on the menu. Just to make sure all was complete cherry cheesecake was offered for desert and accepted. We wonder what next month will bring?

Sunday we enjoyed our visit with Rev. Burgess. He is such a kind and dedicated man! Later that afternoon we had a few games of bingo, with Mary Goldsmith winning the jackpot. Other winners were Marg Besse, Vera Stevens, Keith Branigan, Harold Osborne, Nellie Ranson and Margaret Foote. We had quite the afternoon partly due to our helper Daniel Scott who was kind enough to come and help us.

Monday our monthly Residents Council meeting took place with the main topic consisting of what to do with our broken bus. Things lightened up after that as again we rallied for another game of bingo. Once again Mary Goldsmith was the jackpot winner. Guess this was her lucky week - wonder if she bought lottery tickets? She did give the rest of us a chance as Margaret Foote, Alice Sedgewick and Ruth Nesbitt all took a little something when they left.

We enjoyed seeing Kyla on Monday evening, thanks for dropping by as we do enjoy your company.

SENIOR LEAGUE

News from Hyland Crest

Pastor Dan Millard gave an inspiring Chapel Service on Tuesday. He shared with us his hopes for a new addition to his family. Our prayers are with he and his wife.

In the afternoon Olive and Weldon and friends came for hymn sing. We had a large turnout and all sang from the heart. Thank you to all who came.

We are still refining our Thanksgiving decorations at crafts and if we don't soon finish it will be upon us. Thanks to Dottie and Brenda for all their hard work.

Thank you also goes out to Lora who comes in to pretty up our nails. Where would we be without her?

Our Gentle Hands program this week was enjoyed by Rene McGoldrick, Ed McKelvey, Margaret Feero and Sadie Kitcheman. They enjoyed a variety of massage and hot packs along with conversation and "Chicken Soup" stories.

This week our card players even had a cheering section of Blanche Wright. We don't know who she was cheering for but the games went accordingly: Alice Sedgewick and Roy Nichols fighting hard against Marg Besse and Mary Goldsmith. This week the team of Alice and Roy won by two games to one.

This past Wednesday evening at Pub Night we had the musical talents of Lloyd Madill, Doris and Linda Robertson, Ken Diebel, Shirley Howe and Wendy Billings. What an entertaining bunch. It was nice to see Marg Sisson joining in, but how could one not help but get their musical juices flowing with such energy about? We look forward to their next visit in September. We must not forget those behind the scenes either - our helpers Pearl and Marg and Don Sisson.

Best wishes to Sid Roberts who has been under the weather lately, we hope to see him well, up and about soon.

We all enjoyed seeing Jean Dutka, who was back visiting us after an illness. It's nice to have you back. We missed you.

We regretfully report the passing of Matti Kivela a resident here at Hyland Crest. Our sympathy to his family and friends.

As we leave off, a small group of us are getting our Sunday best on for our big outing. We know we told you last week we would be reporting on our excursion this week, but it seems we misread our calendars. It just adds to the anticipation for one more week.

Remember "Good things come to those who wait."
